Dear MCC Community,

A widespread phishing attempt via e-mail with the subject line of "Covid Test #[random string of numbers]" is hitting our mailboxes. These are NOT legitimate and there's certainly no reason to open the mail and click the link if you're haven't actually been recently tested for Covid AND gave your work e-mail to the test facility. Even then, don't open it, it's a password theft attempt.

The IT security folks are working on filters and we should see the amount an frequency of attempts slow down. In the meantime, always remember that e-mail from someone you don't know is more likely than not a scam of some kind. Should you have any questions, please don't hesitate to reach out to me directly.

Thanks,

Mark
