Appearances by Religions Organizations on Campuses

The college should be a forum for debate on almost all issues, and the appearance on campus by religious organizations is allowed.

Religious organizations wishing to hold informational meetings on the campuses should apply in writing to the campus dean, who will make a recommendation to the President. The final decision will be made by the President. The application for appearance must identify in general the topics to be discussed or aired at the meeting.

The college must not endorse, or appear to endorse, any religious organization or position on any issue. Other than a press release or a marquee announcement of the meeting, no religious signs or written materials are to be placed anywhere on the property of the college. Organizations are prohibited from proselytizing or encouraging membership in the organization.
